Bridge 4 is an 80 metre suspension bridge with 28 metres high towers; one of the engineering highlights of the site’s re-development. The handrails of the other four bridges can collapse in times of flood to minimise debris build-up.

Around 2003 the wetland was cleared of rubbish and non-native flora and 430,000 Australian native plants were substituted. The best time for spotting Red-necked and Swamp Wallabies is early morning or late afternoon.
